

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON AT SEATTLE

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Plaintiff,

Case No. CR14-298 TMB

v.

DETENTION ORDER

ADRIAN SCOTT DOWER,

Defendant.

The United States has moved for a detention order, arguing that there are no conditions of release which will reasonably assure: 1) the Defendant's appearance as required and, 2) the safety of other persons and the community.¹ At a scheduled detention hearing conducted pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 3142 on October 28, 2014, the defendant did not oppose that motion, but reserved the right to seek a bail review hearing in the future. The Court has reviewed the parties' filings as well as the Pretrial Services Reports, and finds that no condition or combination of conditions which defendant can meet will reasonably assure the appearance of the defendant as required and/or the safety of any other person and the community.

This finding is based on 1) the nature and circumstances of the offense(s) charged, including whether the offense is a crime of violence or involves a narcotic drug; 2) the weight of the evidence against the person; 3) the history and characteristics of the person including those set forth in 18 U.S.C. § 3142(g)(3)(A)(B); and 4) the nature and seriousness of the danger release would impose to any person or the community.
